

Frame Machine

Glass decoration and screen printing machinery

Description

The machine is designed to create opaque strips with a "frame" effect on the perimeter of the glass sheets, by roller application. This effect is mainly used in structural facade in architecture.

The roller conveyor supporting the glass is designed with ergonomic adjustments allowing the operator to handle glass sheets of different sizes.